Keynote Speaker:

Joyce Ann Ladner

Civil Rights Activist, Author, Civil Servant & Sociologist

Joyce Ladner's life has been shaped through her first-hand involvement with the civil rights movement in Mississippi, including her work as a staff member alongside Bayard Rustin and other civil rights leaders that organized the March on Washington in 1963. As a teenager, she helped organize an NAACP Youth Chapter in her hometown, she was expelled from college for organizing a civil rights protest, and she was jailed for attempting to integrate an all-white church. She was a friend and worked with slain civil rights leader Medgar Evers, as well as civil rights pioneers Fannie Lou Hamer and Ella Baker. As a field secretary for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), she was on the front lines of most of the major civil rights protests of the sixties. She was on the stage when Dr. Martin Luther King delivered the "I Have A Dream" speech. An eminent sociologist, she was a pioneer in the study of the intersectionality of race, gender and class. Her book, Tomorrow's Tomorrow: The Black Woman was the first book published in African American Women's Studies and is now an American classic.
